Excerpt from Florula Bostoniensis: A Collection of Plants of Boston and Its Vicinity, With Their Generic and Specific Characters, Principal Synonyms, Descriptions, Places of Growth, and Time of Flowering, and Occasional Remarks. Be it remembered, that on the twenty-eighth day of June A. D. 1824, in the forty-eighth year of the Independence of the United States of America, Cummings, Milliard, Co. of the said district have deposited in this office the title of a book, the right whereof they claim as proprietors, in the words following, to wit: Florula Bostoniensis: A Collection of Plants of Boston and its vicinity, with their generic and specific characters, principal synonyms, descriptions, places of growth, and time of flowering, and occasional remarks. By Jacob Bigelow, M.D. Professor in Harvard University, Member of the Linnæan Societies of London and Paris. Second edition greatly enlarged. To which is added a Glossary of the botanical terms employed in the work. In conformity to the act of the Congress of the United States, entitled An act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned; and also to an act, entitled An act supplementary loan act, entitled An act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned; and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing, engraving, and etching historical and other prints.
