Several conferences were held with Mr. Dudley Grant Hays, Director of Visual Instruction in the public schools, for the purpose of discussing the system of loaning cases to the schools and of the study of them while there. On Mr. Hays recommendation, a list of case subjects available for school use was placed on file in the office of each principal where it could be consulted by the teachers with a view to making selections which would correlate certain lessons. He also sent to all public schools and branches a bulletin containing directions for reaching the Museum, rules of admission to it, references to lunches and lunch room, and requests to teachers as to the care of loan cases. In many other helpful ways, Mr. Hays has taken active part. The new chassis purchased during the school vacation and fitted to the old, but repaired and repainted delivery truck body, is better suited for the purposes of this department than the former one. With it, it has been possible to maintain a school day schedule since the beginning of its service. This schedule consists of collections of cases from ten schools and the delivery of them to the same number of schools. With the former chassis only eight collections and deliveries could be made. The addition of thirty-two more schools to the previous schedule demanded this increased daily service. With this addition a total number of 320 schools is listed to receive the cases. Additional visits of inspection and inquiry were made by members of the bureau of exhibits of the United States Department of Agriculture. Desirous of having in
