Text: Strive to enter in at the strait gate; for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut the door. St. Luke. Chapter 13, Verse 24 and part of Verse 25. Let me read this text as I think it should be read, Strive (or agonise) to enter in at the strait gate; for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able when once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut the door. It has been hinted to me that in my preaching I am making things rather difficult. If you will read the New Testament you will discover that Jesus never made salvation easy. Any one who thinks that it is an easy thing to be a Christian does not know Jesus, neither does he know the New Testament. I am certain that if any one thinks it is easy to live the Christlike life, he or she has never tried to live it in all its fulness and beauty.
